Three versions of deformation theory

Daniel Larsson

December 16, 2004

We review and compare three different approaches to deformations of algebraic/geometric/analytic structures: the classical approach of Grothendieck–Schlessinger–Gerstenhaber, the filtered-graded (Rees ring) approach, and lastly a version which could be called "representation theoretic deformation theory".